CHICAGO MAN SUFFOCATES UNDER SAND AT FOX LAKE

Loses Life in Sand Avalanche While Digging Cottage Basement

Adding to the toll of summer fatalities, Clifford Raymond Walker, 31, of 2618 Drake avenue, Chicago, met death unexpectedly Sunday at Fox Lake, after he was caught beneath an avalanche of sand when a basement he was digging caved in. He remained buried for thirty minutes before rescuers recovered his body.

Walker, an employee of the Chicago Rapid Transit company, was assisting his father-in-law, Albert F. Scholz of Lippincott road, Fox Lake, in excavating a basement under the Scholz cottage.

The top layer consisted of two feet of clay, with sand underneath, which gave way and covered Walker with the exception of his right hand. Relatives immediately attempted to dig him out, but despite their efforts, sand continued to pour in on the prostrate man. Before Walker's body was freed, thirty minutes had elapsed and the man was dead from suffocation.

Settlement Made In Jensen Damage Suit

$7,000 Is Reported Paid as Result of Crash 15 Months Ago

The damage suit brought by Dr. George W. Jensen, veterinarian, against Earl McCarthy, Round Lake Beach, was dismissed Saturday after a settlement had been made. It is reported that Dr. Jensen received $7,000 for permanent injuries, hospital and physician's bills and property damage to his automobile.

The case resulted from an automobile accident May 18, 1933, when McCarthy, a Sears Roebuck official owning a cottage on Wooster Lake, crashed into Jensen at the intersection of the Wilson road and the Antioch road to Round Lake highway. Dr. Jensen received serious injuries, and remained for weeks in St. Theresa's hospital where it was first thought that he would not recover. He was unable to resume his practice until the latter part of last summer.

When the case was first brought to trial before a jury in Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady's court, McCarthy was found not guilty. A motion for a new trial was granted Dr. Jensen by Judge Dady, and McCarthy, although inclined to appeal the motion, later agreed to a settlement.

Lake Farm Owners Will Benefit From Bankruptcy Amendment

New Law Provides 2 Methods of Easing Credit for Debtors

As a result of the Frazier-Lemke amendment to the Federal Bankruptcy Act passed by Congress on June 28, and signed by President Roosevelt soon afterwards, the Lake County Farm Debt Adjustment Committee now feels that they will be able to render real service to farm owners unable to meet mortgages contracted when farm prices were much higher than at present, according to C. W. Wray, Secretary of the Committee.

This Committee, beside Mr. Wray, is composed of C. J. Wightman, Chairman, Max Kahner, A. J. MacFarther, Frank Hays, W. E. Durrell, Dave Van Patten, Frank Kennedy and Michael Obenaus. They meet at the Farm Bureau Office, Grays Lake, 8:00 P. M., on the fourth Monday of each month, making next Monday, July 23, as the next meeting date. At the last meeting on June 25, four cases were heard and at least two were settled to the satisfaction of both debtor and creditor.

May Retain Possession

Briefly, the Frazier-Lemke Amendment to the Bankruptcy Act provides that a farmer who has made a proposal to secure a composition or extension of his debts, but has failed to get the requisite acceptance by his creditors, or feels himself aggrieved by the proposal, may ask the court that he be judged a bankrupt; that his property be appraised; that his exemptions under state law be set aside (subject to any liens thereon, to the extent of the appraised value of exempted property); and that he be allowed to retain possession of all or any part of the remainder, either by (1) paying its appraised fair value under the liberal terms of a six-year purchase agreement, provided the holders of the liens on the property consent; or (2), if the secured creditors make written objections to that arrangement, by paying a fair annual rental during a period of five years, with the right to purchase the property at any time during that period by payment of the full appraised price or the reappraised price determined as the result of a reappraisal made at the request of the lienholder, whichever sum is the greater.

Two Means of Settlement

The Frazier-Lemke amendment thus provides two means of settlement; but under either arrangement the debtor may remain in possession of all or any part of his property during the period of settlement; under the control of the court.

Any farmer who due to heavy obligations feels that he cannot possibly avoid foreclosure or bankruptcy should get in touch with some member of the above committee or else appear at the meeting place on July 23, and receive full information as to steps and legal procedure. It is hoped by the Committee, however, that creditors will now take a more lenient attitude toward debtors and settlements and adjustments between the two can be made without resorting to either court action or bankruptcy. Many cases are being refinanced by Federal Land Banks and Production Credit Associations, both Federal agencies revised or established by Henry Morgenthau, Jr., when he was in charge of the Farm Credit Administration prior to his appointment as Secretary of the Treasury.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ellis and family attended a reunion of the Ellis and Still families at Fox River Park Sunday.

ANTIOCH YOUTHS ENLIST IN NAVY AND C.C.C. RANKS

Several Are Sent to Oregon; Others in Training at Ft. Sheridan

The lure of the West and the call of the sea is beckoning strongly to the youth of Antioch these days, with nearly a dozen members of the younger generation enrolled in the ranks of the Navy or the Civil Conservation Corps.

Carl Hattendorf left July 9 to join the CCC at Roseburg, Oregon, for a six weeks' term. Johnny Sheen, who has been in training at Fort Sheridan for two weeks, expects to leave this week to join a CCC unit in Oregon, and Lars Steffenberg, Lake Villa, expects to leave July 23 to join the irrigation division of the CCC at Cat-Skill Locks, Oregon.

Two others, Otto Hansen and Frank Blair left yesterday for Fort Sheridan for two weeks' training for OCC. Clifford Cunningham, who has served six months, is recouping for admittance. Norbert Pacini and Harry Cunningham have served for about three months, although Pacini was forced to return home because of illness.

Walter Simonsen and Russell Hunter took examinations in Chicago recently for admittance to the Navy, both passing creditably and Simonsen with honors. William Overton is planning to take the examination for the Navy soon.

96 in County Chosen

The Antioch boys enlisting yesterday formed but a small fraction of the youth of the county accepted in the third OCC contingent, 96 successfully passing the test given by Dr. Olsen and Capt. Crehan of Fort Sheridan. These boys, who are between 18 and 25 years of age, were sent to Fort Sheridan for the two weeks conditioning period. This contingent, designated as the Drought quota, is expected to be sent to Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

The young men are drawn from communities of 1,000 or more and the surrounding territory, and no longer are drawn from families on poor relief as was provided originally.

The Drought contingent places 277 county men in this branch of government service, 105 having been accepted in the first quota and 76 in the second.

Food and clothing are furnished the boys, as well as medical attention and competent supervision from army engineers, and a remuneration of $1.00 per day.

C. A. COPPER IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Hold Funeral Services for Trevor Man This Afternoon

Funeral services were held this afternoon at the home for C. A. Copper of Trevor, who passed away at the Kenosha hospital Tuesday. Diabetes was given as the cause of his death. Interment will be in the Wilmet Cemetery.

Copper, who was well-known about Trevor, where he lived for ten years, had been in ill health for years. Before coming to Trevor he was employed as a barber at Aurora, but in Trevor was a cement worker. He was 67 years old at the time of his death.

He is survived by his wife, Martha; four daughters, Mrs. William Smith, Pauline, Gertrude and Ellen; and one son.

Grass Lake Resident Dies from Heart Ailment

Funeral services for William Wentz, 57, retired Grass Lake bachelor who passed away in the Waukegan hospital Saturday evening from a heart ailment, were held at his cottage at Grass Lake Tuesday afternoon. Interment is in the Grass Lake Cemetery.

The deceased has been a resident of Grass Lake, where he was quite well-known, for many years.

McMILLEN STOPS COAST MAT STAR IN 25 MINUTES

Plummer Pins Foe, Then Challenges Jim

If Sol Stigel, California contortionist mat star really had ambitions to meet Champion Jim Londo, he lost them Friday in the Round Lake arena when Jim McMillen's tackles and slams finished him off in 25 minutes. During the first part of the bout McMillen was puzzled by the way the Californian slipped out of his various assortment of holds, arm-locks, leg-locks and whatnot, but when the speed boy from Antioch really started to work on the contortionist, the Californian's ability to bend himself into a pretzel availed him nothing. After a series of slams Stigel was easily pinned for the count.

In the semi-windup Lou Plummer was victor over Dick Raines, burly Texas cowboy, who is said to be the biggest wrestler in the game. The bout was 20 minutes of the roughest stuff seen in this locality. While Plummer was booted for his part of the dirty work as well as the Texan, certain newspaper publicity treats the victor as a hero, probably seeking a "build-up" for a return bout with McMillen.

"Buckets" Wins
"Buckets" Goldenberg, former Wisconsin grid star, was given a big hand as he conquered Hans Bauer, German strong man of Milwaukee.

The first preliminary saw George Mack and Steve Nagel, Milwaukee, feuding at each other in what purported to be a wrestling match. Neither grappler was popular with the crowd and the spectators were not enthusiastic over Mack's victory, which he won in about 17 minutes.

It is reported that Jim Londo will appear in a match at the Round Lake arena in the near future. If so, Matchmaker White and Promoter Behning may expect a full house.

EHL BUYS SMITH'S SERVICE STATION

Former Owner Opens Fruit and Vegetable Mart Here

M. Ehl, formerly of Chicago, but late of Alabama, has bought Ray Smith's Lake Street Service Station and has placed his two sons in active charge of the business. The real estate remains the property of William Christian, of Kenosha, who built the station about four years ago. Ehl assumed the lease.

The new owner and his family consisting of his wife, two sons and a daughter, have just recently returned from Alabama where Mr. Ehl spent 15 years engaged in various pursuits, including general merchandising, and also an extensive shipping business of southern fruits and vegetables. The family occupies the Christian residence located on the oil station property.

Ray Smith, the former owner, has announced the opening Saturday of his Roadside Market, located at the intersection of Lake street and Rt. 59 opposite St. Peter's Catholic church. Smith announces that he will handle the best of the freshest seasonable fruits, vegetables, also eggs, butter, cream and milk. All products will be procured locally in so far as is possible. Smith stated. His place will be open seven days a week and until late at night.

Mr. Smith and family are occupying the Roesechlein house in north Antioch.

250 Scouts Arrive at Will Roger's Shag Bark Camp

A second group of 250 Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts arrived Thursday for Will Rogers Shag Bark camp and mothers and kiddies for Salvation Army Fresh Air camp. The work of grading the rise of land near the lake is still in progress. Scouts are from Chicago, Elgin, Joliet and other nearby cities.

Aged Man Claims Lantern At Exhibit Lost 70 Years Ago

Salem Members of Historical Society Exhibit Their Ancient Relics

The exhibit and program presented by the Kenosha County Historical society at Salem Saturday evening proved to be a genuine reminder of by-gone days. Among the incidents of the evening which created astonishment and amusement was the action of Morris B. Dodge, 88-year-old former resident of Salem, who, while giving a talk of reminiscences, pointed to a lantern among the antiques on display and announced that he had lost that very lantern more than 70 years ago.

The principal address was delivered by Mrs. Nedora Gammon, Kenosha, who recalled many people and events of long ago in Salem community. Lantern slides of various Kenosha county places and persons were shown.

Among the exhibits were a battered silver spoon used by a soldier in the Revolutionary War and a diary kept by this soldier. They are the property of Mrs. William Cull. Others who entered such articles as a hand-carved 150-year-old rolling pin, iron spider, linenwear, coverlets and various kinds of needlework, china, etc., were shown by Mrs. Ada Huntoon, Mrs. Olive Mutter, Mrs. Arthur Harrell, Mrs. Kimball, Mrs. George Faulkner, Mrs. Bloss, Mrs. Maggie Bryant, Mrs. L. Patrick, Mrs. Laura Cook, Mrs. F. Hillier, Mrs. Harriet Pierce, Miss Sarah Patrick, Mrs. Annie Minnis and Mrs. George Acker.

WORK BEGUN ON TOWER LOT ROAD

Village Dads Take Action; Road Some Day to Join With Victoria St.

Construction of a portion of the proposed new road eventually to join with Victoria street, connecting Orchard and Lake streets, was begun today, after a final action on the matter was taken yesterday at a meeting of the members of the Streets and Alleys committee and Water committee of the Village Board.

The portion now under construction is a 260-foot strip, 80 feet in width, extending along the east side of the Village Tower lot south from Orchard street to the south line of the village property, recently purchased.

Local labor will be employed to do the necessary grading and graveling. It is expected that the work will be completed in thirty days.

This street will prove of immediate benefit to those merchants whose shops are located on the north end of the west side of Main street, but will be of little value as a public thoroughfare until it is joined with Victoria street. It is expected that individual lot owners will take action to complete the road in consequence of the village project which includes about one-third of the proposed route.

Village officials yesterday also made plans to relocate the tower lot.

YOUTH DROWNS IN GAGES LAKE WHEN ROWBOAT CAPSIZES

Overloaded Boat Sinks; Girl Saved by Club Member

Swelling the season's death toll from drownings, Joseph Krayner, 29, of 2919 Sheffield avenue, Chicago, lost his life Sunday when an overloaded boat capsized on Gages Lake.

Krayner and about fifty other members of the Sheffield Booster Club held an outing at the Batterhall Grove on the east end of the lake. The youth and five companions went out in the rowboat about 3 o'clock, and a short time afterward the boat capsized from the weight of the party within a hundred feet from shore.

Krayner, who just had eaten, sank immediately and did not reappear on the surface of the water. His body was recovered within a few minutes, as it lay in but six feet of water, within sight of rescuers. Efforts to revive the youth were without success.

Save Girl.

Another member of the Booster club, Martha Brod, 18, was saved from drowning in the same accident by Howard Livergood, 15, a fellow club member, who went out from shore to effect the rescue.

Neither Krayner nor Miss Brod were able to swim. It is thought that the youth, having just eaten, was seized with a cramp.

Following the fatal accident, Coroner John L. Taylor issued a warning against overloading boats.

Baby Is Drowned

A 16-month-old baby, Jimmy Green, son of Fred Green of LaGrange, was drowned in Fox River near Platakee Bay in McHenry County Monday afternoon. The baby was last seen alive playing in the cottage. He was discovered by his father floating beneath the pier, and it is supposed that he fell off it while trying to walk.

Artificial respiration methods were applied for an hour by McHenry firemen with no success. The baby hadn't been in the water more than ten minutes, according to the father.

Chicagoan Is Lake Victim

Another city resident to lose his life in the waters of county lakes was Manuel Stojnick, 21, Chicago, who sank in Crystal Lake about fifty feet off the southern shore late Sunday afternoon.

He was said by friends to have dived from the rear end of a rowboat. Coming up at once about thirty-five feet from the boat, he shouted for help and sank out of sight before a rescue could be made.

Police and lake residents combined forces in dragging for the body.

Ask Indictments Today For Five Woodstock Jailbreakers

Capture Two of Fugitives; John Enos Is Confessed Ringleader

Indictments will be asked today charging the five prisoners who escaped from the McHenry County jail at Woodstock July 8 with "aiding escape," according to Sheriff Lester Edinger. The McHenry County grand jury is called today.

Two of the five jailbreakers were captured last week. Henry Odenbrett of Waukegan, charged with forging checks, was captured in Osseo, Wis., where he had gone to visit his wife, whom he had not seen in several years. He was taken back to Woodstock. John Enos, facing bank robbery charges, was located in a cheap rooming house in Chicago by Chicago police and returned to Woodstock. He is the confessed ringleader in the jailbreak plot.

The three others still eluding capture are: Charles Taylor who recently was arrested in Oregon for a jewel robbery in the John Barrett home, Crystal Lake; Ellsworth Fowler, 63, who is charged with an automobile theft, and Joseph Layonlan, 40, facing arson charges.

Should these five be convicted on the "aiding escape" charge they will be sentenced to serve a prison term of from one year to life.

PUBLISHED BY THE ANTIOCH PRESS

Established 1888

Subscription—$1.50 Per Year

Entered at the Postoffice at Antioch, Illinois, as second class matter, All Home Print.

THURSDAY, JULY 19, 1934

Illinois printers, under the NRA code imposed from Washington, must charge $5.50 for a thousand 6 1/2 envelopes, costing $1.80. The government is selling through every postoffice the same envelope with two cent stamps on them for $22.48 a thousand, or only $2.48 for the envelopes, less than half what the printer must charge or go to jail. Do the printers of Illinois feel they have lost any of their rights? Do they believe their future is more secure?

Viewed in the light of one statement of the 1932 platform of the party in power—"We advocate the removal of Government from all fields of private enterprise"—the above would remind one that there can be no jewel in this brand of consistency.

COMMON-SENSE AND FARM PROBLEMS

The farm cooperative movement represents an effort to apply simple horse-sense to the problems of agriculture.

Everyone buys as cheaply as he can, and the small seller confronted by the big buyer is in an unhappy position. In the past, the single farmer, attempting to dispose of his products to a great distributing organization, had to take what was offered or go without a sale. The cooperative, handling the products of tens of thousands of individual producers, can bargain with the buyer on equal terms.

We live in a world in which new methods are supplanting old methods in all occupations. The cooperative hires the best farm experts it can find, and does an invaluable work in showing farmers how to produce better products at a lower cost.

Individual farmers, without collective information as to markets or price structures, will overproduce all manner of commodities with the inevitable result, low prices. The cooperative is doing an essential work in attempting to bring production and consumption into a closer relationship.

The main reason the cooperatives are gaining new members and new support from the general public, is that practical, sensible considerations dictate their activities.

"THE UNTAXED AMERICAN IS A MYTH"

Here is a statement by Dr. William Bennett Munro of the Executive Council of the California Institute of Technology, that should be firmly implanted in the mind of every American:

"The untaxed American is a myth. No one who occupies property, owns a car, smokes tobacco, drinks beer, goes to the theatre, eats three meals a day, rides on a street car or goes through the other motions of daily life gets by untaxed. Yet there are people who think themselves non-taxpayers when at least ten per cent of their earnings go for taxes. They are victims of the great American delusion. Of itself government earns no money. Every dollar that it gets for its support must come from someone who does the earning. To do this it must tax production, all production, which means that both producer and consumer share in paying the bills."

Dr. Munro might have added that it is the consumer who invariably bears the greater share of the burden—our industries, much as they would like to, have no magic means of conjuring money from air.

Every expense of operation, whether it be material, labor, rent or taxes, must be included in the cost of the finished product. The buyer always pays. And today, with the cost of all forms of government soaring, he pays more in taxes for each dollar he earns than he ever did before.

If these indirect taxes were paid directly, there would be a howl of anguish from one end of the country to another. Taxpayers in all walks of life would band together to demand more efficient and less expensive government. And a similar result will follow when the people learn that indirect taxes can be as expensive as direct taxes—even more expensive, as heavier levies can be exacted without the public knowing it.

In brief, when the actual facts concerning taxation are known, there may be a change from the intolerable conditions of the present.

IOWA MAKES BID FOR TOURIST TRADE

Among the interesting advertising pieces coming to the desk of the News this week is one from the state of Iowa inviting the tourist to the "Little Switzerland of America," and describing it as the richest 1,500 square miles in scenic and historic wonders in the mid-west. The advertising comes from a group of North-eastern Iowa boosters who have just issued a pictorial map showing the points of interest in the region.

The folder on one side shows the roads coming into the territory embracing McGregor, Lansing, Guttenberg, Elkader, Monona, Postville, Strawberry Point, Marquette, Waukon, Iowa; and Prairie du Chien, Wis. An artist's conception of the hundreds of attractions in the "Little Switzerland of America" shows the reader at a glance just what he will find.

On the reverse side of the map is a group of 15 photographs of most interesting points in the region, along with a brief description of the scenic and historic points in Northeast Iowa and Prairie du Chien, Wis., which territory is featured by the great Mississippi river.

The maps, 100,000 of them, are being issued by the co-operative plan of all the towns involved, and are available free by writing The Northeastern Iowa Press Ass'n, Travel Bureau, at Elkader, Iowa.

Our neighbors to the west are proceeding upon the well recognized theory that business goes where it is invited and remains or comes again to the place where it is well treated. Their commendable and timely effort to attract profitable tourist trade brings to mind that in our own community, right at the threshold of one of the nation's greatest markets (Metropolitan Chicago), citizens are sitting idly waiting for the plums of profit from tourists and vacationists to fall as they did a decade ago. Times have changed—easy and rapid transportation, and the aggressiveness of rival communities is cutting into the erstwhile easy business enjoyed by the chain of lakes region. Competition here is not with the man in the same line of business across the street, but the fight for business is community against community, state against state. Where a sufficient number of people congregate there is business and profit enough for all willing to render service.

It has now been many years since this community has made an organized effort to attract business, and as other progressive centers have made inroads into the local tourist and resort trade, the chain of lakes region has been loser in just that proportion.

Many rival communities have less to offer in service, scenic beauty, natural resources, and convenience, yet they get business because of intelligent and co-ordinated effort—in other words they are wise enough to advertise, and to invite business through publicity.

Out of all Chicagoland's six and a half million people there is only about one in a thousand who knows of Antioch and the Chain of Lakes. A few hundred dollars spent wisely in the publicity effort would attract thousands to this locality in 1935.

Number of Drinking Drivers Has Increased Since Repeal

National Safety Council Survey Shows 30 Per Cent Rise in Accident Cases Involving "Had Been Drinking" Drivers; Total is Still Relatively Small

Drinking drivers involved in non-fatal accidents have increased about 30 per cent during the first three months of this year of repeal over the similar period of prohibition in 1933, according to preliminary studies just completed by the National Safety Council. The fact that in neither year was drinking a major factor in traffic accidents, however, refutes the opinion held by many that repeal is the chief cause of the increased motor vehicle death toll this year.

The Council has studied certain states, in which, during the first three months of 1934, there were 33,410 drivers involved in non-fatal injury accidents, compared with 35,653 drivers in such accidents during the first three months of 1933. In these accidents there were 691 "had been drinking" drivers in 1934, compared with 491 in 1933. But, with nearly 2,000 more drivers involved there were only 200 more in the "had been drinking" category. Intoxication was reported for 1.33 percent of all drivers in 1933, as compared with 1.80 per cent this year. Thus, the number who "had been drinking" increased 40 per cent, but because the total number of drivers also increased, the advance in percentages amounted to only 30 per cent.

Not Major Hazard

In both years, it will be noted, the number of drivers reported as "had been drinking" is very small in comparison with the total drivers involved in accidents. Although there may be some tendency not to report this item, the percentage of unreported cases was probably about the same each year and if the increase in such accidents this year had been much greater than indicated, liquor would still be among the minor causes of the increase in automobile accidents.

The general 1934 increase in accidents, the Council holds, is largely due to increased motor vehicle travel without a proportionate increase in prevention effort by city and state officials and by the drivers themselves. Drunken driving is only one of the many violations concerning which police departments should tighten up enforcement.

A study limited to cities showed that between the period in 1933 and the period in 1934 there appeared no increase of those who "had been drinking" or "were intoxicated" of about 40 per cent, also taking account of the general increase in accidents.

Local Figures Vary

Variances in the percentages of intoxicated drivers are shown from city to city and from state to state. New York State, for example, had 127 intoxicated drivers in the first three months of 1934, as compared to 116 in the similar period of 1933. Corresponding figures for March only in Michigan were 107 and 41, and in Pennsylvania 73 and 49. New Jersey was one of the states which increased its quota of intoxicated drivers in the first three months of 1934. The figures were 107 for the first three months of 1934 as compared to 82 in 1933.

More marked contrasts are to be seen in the records of cities. Chicago, for example, had 151 intoxicated drivers in the three-month period of 1934 compared to 33 as of the previous year. Boston has 27 compared with 12; Akron eighteen as compared to five. For the single month of January, Los Angeles has 73 this year compared to 42 as of last year. For the first three months, Pittsburgh had 46 compared with six, and Milwaukee, 39 compared with eighteen.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"God" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, July 15.

The Golden Text was, "Blessing and glory, and wisdom, and thanksgiving, and honour, and power, and might, be unto our God for ever and ever" (Rev. 7:12).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "I know that, whatsoever God doeth, it shall be for ever: nothing can be put to it, nor any thing taken from it; and God doeth it, that men should fear before him. That which hath been is now; and that which is to be hath already been; and God requirereth that which is past" (Eccl. 3:14, 15).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "We bury the sense of infidelity, when we admit that, although God is infinite, evil has a place in this infinity, for evil can have no place, where all space is filled with God" (p. 460).

HUNCHING SHOULDERS EXHAUSTS HOUSEWIVES

Tasks Are Accomplished Best with Natural Movements

Doctors and beauty specialists estimate that much energy is wasted during the day simply by doing what has to be done in nervous, tense positions. Housewives, in particular, often are more than necessarily fagged at the end of the day because of the unnatural pressure put on certain nerve centers.

For example, many women drive a car all hunched up in the seat, straining forward, eyes anxiously glued on the road ahead. Now the serene well poised woman covers the same territory with her head and upper body balanced comfortably upright over her strong shoulder and hip bones. Then the weight of the head is supported and a fair supply of oxygen and blood assured.

A few hours shopping exhausts some women, not because of the walking, but because of the tense way they hold their purses and the tight nervous manner in which they clutch their parcels and decide upon purchases.

Avoid Nervous Tensions

In following their daily and weekly household tasks, women might save themselves unnecessary strain by avoiding a few attitudes. If you are ironing, don't hunch your shoulders forward over your work, letting the shoulder muscles saw away on sensitive shoulder nerves with each swoop! Loosen up, with a few shrugs, if necessary, let your arms hang loose and straight from the outermost tips of your shoulder girdle. You will feel pressure melt away all down your back, for you've lifted an unfair burden off a thousand nerves and put it on the bony bridge-work, its natural support.

It's the same with making beds, setting the table, or any light task. Don't exert as much strength on a dish mop as on a coal shovel; that's what you do when you work with

Blend Pineapple And Blackberries In Arcady Pie

Have you ever heard of Arcady pie? Sounds refreshing, doesn't it? The principal ingredients are blackberries and pineapple, which have been found to be nearly perfect complements for each other.

With blackberries and fresh pineapple both in the market, now is the time to try this pastry.

Arcady Pie

2 cups ripe blackberries
1 1/2 cups pineapple, cubed
3/4 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
2 teaspoons lemon juice.

Wash and stem berries. Mix with drained pineapple. Mix sugar, flour. Add to fruit. Add lemon juice. Line pie plate with pastry. Brush bottom with melted lard to prevent soginess. Fill with fruit. Cover top with pastry. Slash top to let steam escape. Bake in hot oven (450 deg. F.) 10 minutes, then lower to moderate (350 deg. F.) and bake 20 minutes longer. Digestible Pastry (Master Recipe).

Double Crust: 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 2/3 cup shortening, 6 to 8 tablespoons water.

Single crust: 1 1/2 cups flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup shortening, 4 to 6 tablespoons water.

Crumby Crust: Sift flour and salt. Do not chill shortening. Cut in shortening finely. Add just enough water to hold mixture together.

Flaky Crust—Sift flour and salt. Chill shortening. Cut in coarsely. Add ice-water, just enough to hold mixture together. From here on, the method is the same: Roll pastry 1/4 inch thick on lightly floured board. For baked shell, cover inverted pieplate. Prick bottom and sides. Bake in hot oven (450 deg. F.) 15 minutes. For two-crust pie, bake 10 minutes in hot oven (450 deg.) then reduce to moderate (350 deg.) Bake until filling is done.

tight shoulders. You create muscular resistance in one area and fight against it in another. You make twice as many motions as should be necessary.

Milk Contains More Sugar Than Fat

(from Prairie Farmer)
"Many people are surprised," says O. E. Reed, chief of the Bureau of Dairy Industry at Washington, "to learn that milk contains more pounds of sugar than of fat." Mr. Reed is urging that greater attention be given to the matter of recovering the solids from skimmed milk and developing profitable use of them so that the income of the dairyman will be increased. The sugar, proteins and mineral salts in skimmed milk are valuable foods. Dry skimmed milk is now used extensively in the manufacture of milk chocolate, bread, ice cream and other food products, but only a fraction of the skimmed milk produced is so utilized. Further research along this line will be highly profitable to the dairy industry, according to Mr. Reed.

WHEN SHOULD WE CUT THE SECOND CROP OF ALFALFA?

Dry Weather and Sunshine Hasten Maturity, Says Expert

L. F. Graber

Cutting schedules for alfalfa in 1934 are like a Chinese puzzle. Imagine the confusion when some fields made a tall growth bearing seed pods the first week in June (normally they appear in July) while others were short stunted blossoming and drouth stricken to the point of fast losing the lower leaves. The alfalfa areas of the north central states have, most surely, represented a medley of conditions. Almost every conceivable stage of growth was evident on any day in June, 1934. The net result is that we have a second growth of alfalfa coming from fields that have been cut all the way from the last of May until the first week in July. For example on July 4, 1934, I found alfalfa that was just being cut for the first time yet in that same neighborhood the second growth of some fields was definitely in full bloom and ready for haying. To rationalize and to bring order and reason into this apparent wholesale confusion on cutting procedure we must get at the principles involved.

Cut Third Crop

When alfalfa grows with plenty of sunlight—generous solar radiation (such as we have had this season) and with moderate but not too drastic limitations of water supply, it will bloom and store abundant reserves of food and energy in its roots in about one-half to three-fourth of the time required when rainfall is plentiful and cloudy, sunless days are numerous. One reason why in Hawaii, alfalfa can be cut as often as 13 times a year without seriously injuring the stand is because of the abundant sunshine and judicious irrigation. Drought and sunshine are the main reasons why 1934 is one year when those in the Middle West who need hay badly but who ordinarily cut but two crops of alfalfa a year are fully justified in planning to cut three. In a sense I dislike to say this, because I have been a vigorous advocate of the two-cutting system with delayed cutting of the first and second crops in northern states like Wisconsin. I still hold to that in principle but the climatic setup (or upset as it should be called) this year and the impending shortage of hay fully warrants, in my opinion, the risks involved with cutting three crops in 1934.

Avoid Late September Cutting
I am assuming, of course that the third crop will be cut at a time to cause the least harm to the alfalfa and that rainfall will be sufficient to produce three crops. It probably will. If so the third growth ought to be cut either during the last of August and the first ten days in September or during the last two weeks in October. By all means, cutting in late September and in early October should be avoided. During these 30 or 40 days alfalfa should be let alone so it can prepare itself for winter by fattening its roots with cold resisting foods. If the third crop is cut during this middle-autumn period the alfalfa is very apt to go into winter with roots poorly stored and inadequately prepared to stand the hard knocks of freezing and thawing, of ice sheets and all the other tough features of a bad winter. When shall the second crop be cut? Much depends on when we cut the first crop and what we expect to do with the third. Those who have cut the first crop early and have had a fair amount of rain can cut the second crop about the middle of latter part of July when it is well in blossom. This will generally bring the third cutting on or about the last of August or the first ten days of September. Those who cut the second crop about the forepart or middle of August. Then the third growth can remain without cutting until late in October. With such late October cutting we run the chance of bad curing weather but I think this is preferable to taking the more serious risk of losing our stands from winter-killing.

Strive for Quantity

If a third crop is not contemplated and especially if the first crop is cut late in June the second crop should be delayed as much as the quality of the hay will permit. This will give the alfalfa plants every opportunity to produce the greatest possible yields.

Generally speaking the hay gained by cutting alfalfa in fact in most cases it is a waste to do this. Delayed cutting for stronger and healthier alfalfa and where hay is fed on the farm I think it is wiser and better to sacrifice some on "so-called" quality for the sake of quantity and permanence of our stands. Whether or not to cut a third crop will depend largely on how badly we will need the hay. There is always some risk involved when we do this but in any case let us reduce that risk to the minimum and not cut that third crop during the storage period when alfalfa is getting ready for winter libernation. This means to keep the mowers out of alfalfa from about the tenth of September to the middle or latter part of October. This is a good time to leave alfalfa alone.

BRAZIL NUTS ARE CAST IN A NEW ROLE

Brazil Nuts have long been regarded as a popular confection and holiday tidbit, but to find them mixed in as a basic ingredient of a cool and "chewy" new summer salad is an experience you will surely want to enjoy.

Introduced by Theophile, maître de cuisine of the Sherry Netherland, New York's most exclusive hotel, Brazil Nut salad is winning favor on the luncheon tables of many smart hostesses.

Like so many other dishes which have been prepared according to laws which govern the highest French cuisine, this intriguing new salad conveys an entirely new taste sensation. Despite the distinctiveness of such ingredients as curry powder, pimento and pineapple, you will be unable to single them out if you follow Theophile's recipe to the letter.

An interesting point to be noted, when mixing this salad in your own kitchen, is the lack of olive or other oil in the dressing. This omission is considered advisable because of the abundance of oil in the nuts.

Success which followed the first servings of the salad, led its creator to experiment with Brazil Nut dressing. Theophile's recipe for Brazil Nut Ice Cream, a rich and delicious party treat for eight, follows that of his famous salad.

Brazil Nut Salad Theophile.

One-half pound Brazil Nuts
Pimento
One small pineapple
Curry powder
One lemon
Pinch salt
One-quarter pint heavy cream
Hearts lettuce

For a dish for four persons, first shred one-half pound Brazil Nuts. Now cut up a small pineapple in julienne; that is to say, in lengths of an inch or more, sliced into fine strips. Next cut up some pimento in large dice, add a dash of curry powder—no more than can be put on the tip of the blade of a pocket knife—and add the juice of a lemon, a pinch of salt and one-quarter pint of heavy cream. Mix well. Dress in a salad bowl with the leaves from a heart of small crisp lettuce, and decorate with pimento cubes, slices of two hard-boiled eggs, and Brazil Nuts cut in half lengthwise.

Burnt Brazil Nut Ice Cream Sherry Netherland

(Note: "burnt" the same as "burnt" almonds; i. e., roasted.) Half pound burnt Brazil Nuts
Two gills cream
Ten egg-yolks
Ten ounces sugar
One pint boiling milk

Crush half a pound of burnt Brazil Nuts and mix with two gills of cream. Put ten egg-yolks in a basin with ten ounces of sugar, mix well together, adding the nut mixture and a pint of boiling milk. Set the basin on a slow fire, stir constantly with a spoon until it is sufficiently thick to stay on the spatula. Now put aside to cool, but stir at times to prevent a skin forming on top. When cool, add one pint of cream, strain through a fine sieve, and freeze. However for service, an artistic method is to use melon-shaped molds for freezing the cream. These should be coated with strawberry ice, in which has been mixed twice its quantity of whipped cream. Then fill the mold with the ice cream preparation already made. Freeze the molds and unmold on a folded napkin, from which the now completed dessert can easily be transferred to the serving dish.

With School Over, Problems of Cost And an Adequate Curriculum Remain

Harried School Boards
May Be Aided By Recent Development in Instruction Methods

A RECENT development in high school instruction methods promises to become a major educational factor as, with school over for the summer, school boards ponder the financial problem of opening them again, next fall and keeping them running with an adequate curriculum through the winter.

Last winter, with hundreds of schools closed or offering curtailed programs because of lack of funds, the Benton Harbor Plan of Supervised Correspondence Instruction was used in approximately 100 high schools throughout the country to provide an immeasurably wider curriculum than they would otherwise have been able to offer.

The Benton Harbor Plan was inaugurated by S. C. Mitchell, Superintendent of Schools, Benton Harbor, Michigan, some years ago and has since had a gradual but steady spread to other high schools. It consists of an arrangement with recognized correspondence schools or university extension divisions, through which high school students are able to enroll for courses to fit them for a vocation, or to meet their special interests. One student or a score can enroll for the same course. A member of the high school teaching staff is appointed to supervise the work.

Correspondence Schools have played a leading part in developing the Benton Harbor Plan, while the University of Nebraska has adopted the principle of the Plan to enable small high schools within the state to offer courses their funds would not

Apart from the struggle schools are having with their budgets, many prominent educators hold that correspondence instruction offers one of the most promising means of adapting the curriculum to the individual pupil.

Walter H. Gaumnitz, a Senior Specialist of the U. S. Office of Education, has said, "Perhaps the best answer to the query of whether high school instruction, by correspondence is already in wide use and the movement is constantly growing . . . larger numbers of high schools are experimenting with these courses, and the educational literature is giving more and more attention to the movement."

A. W. Castle, Director of Extension Education for the State of Pennsylvania, has said, "high school correspondence courses seem to offer great possibilities in solving some of our most pressing and most difficult administrative problems."
